Solianis Monitoring AG - Looking forward to 2006

Zurich, 23rd of December 2005: Based on the positive last 6 months Solianis Monitoring AG is looking forward to a successful 2006.

The company incorporated last spring is developing a system for non-invasive glucose monitoring for diabetes patients.

„Our technology is not only a huge step forward in medical device technology, but most of all it will be an improvement in the quality of life for the 170 Million patients suffering from diabetes in this world“, says Mario Stark, CEO of Solianis AG, after a board meeting in Zurich.

The purpose of the system developed by Solianis Monitoring AG is not to measure “point values” which would be of limited interest, but to track the changes in blood glucose continuously, without restrictions and under every-day-life conditions.

The results of the tests and experiments conducted so far are truly encouraging and have convinced the current investors to continue financing the company. Based on a clearly defined development schedule the company is confident to achieve the next milestone. Additional investors are expected to sign up in order to participate in this promising future market.
